About Program

The National Board of Examinations and UNESCO Chair in Bioethics (Haifa) have joined hands to conduct focused training in Bioethics and Communication. This is being done in view of the proposed curriculum reform of the National DNB program where Bioethics and Communication, Quality and Safety are being introduced as mandatory learning objectives. The Indian program of the UNESCO Chair in Bioethics (Haifa), has taken the initiative to conduct accredited training and credentialing of the supervisors of the Postgraduate DNB programme in Bioethics and Communication.

All accredited hospital based DNB programs are invited to nominate and send DNB supervisors and teachers to attend the 3T Integrated Bioethics for Medical Sciences for postgraduate supervisors.

This training has two components – the Part I consists of a 2½ days of face-to face training focused on predominantly ‘how to teach’ bioethics and communication skills. This includes the reformed teaching methodology that is to be used to ensure that bioethics education is integrated into all aspects of post-graduate medical education under the DNB program.

The Part II consists of an International Webinar Certificate course on the Principles of Bioethics and Human Rights for a period of 16 weeks on ‘what to teach in bioethics’. This live, interactive, webinar series also includes a series of Guest Faculty lectures from leading subject experts from all across the globe that make this course both unique in design and exclusive in content for both faculty and post-graduate students.

On successful completion of both Part I and Part II, the participating DNB supervisors will be eligible for the registration with the International Forum of Teachers of Bioethics based at the Medical University of Sofia (E.U.)

Why this program?

Teaching bioethics is a comprehensive and long-term effort helping graduate and undergraduate students to become fully linked to the roots of their own personal principles. UNESCO established Chairs to improve the teaching of bioethics in medical schools. Its position was that bioethics should operate from the bedrock of human dignity and fundamental human rights, and bioethics teachers should be aware of cultural pluralism as well. To teach bioethics UNESCO has prepared 3T-IBHSc program for faculty members. This program is built to ‘Train-Teach-Transfer’ Bioethics and Human Rights knowledge to the faculty members from medical fraternity.

Target Audience

This course is beneficial for Post Graduate Supervisors/Teachers/Consultant/Faculty of NBE accredited Hospitals/Institutions running DNB program in various Broad & Super Specialty, and Fellowship programme in various sub specialty areas.
